

Newham Monitoring Project

ANTI-TERRORISM LAWS

Free Training for Faith Groups WEDNESDAY 10TH AUGUST

Minhaj-ul-Quran International
292-296, Romford Road
Forest Gate, London, E7
7pm-9pm

Newham Monitoring Project is providing free training for mosques and other faith sector groups in Newham on the recent anti-terrorism laws and their impact on local people.

The session will provide information and advice on what to do if you are stopped and searched or arrested and detained under anti-terrorism legislation, as well as other aspects of the law that are most likely to affect our communities. Events since the bombings in London have made it vital that communities are aware of these laws and are informed of their rights.

The two hour session will include information from solicitors at Birnberg Peirce, one of the country's leading human rights law firms, and from Newham Monitoring Project, which provides casework support in east London for people suffering racial harassment or problems with the police.
